Introduction

What is the goal of the 2008 Progress Report?

This report describes the scope of work performed by designated public institutions in regard to French-language services in the 2007-2008 fiscal year. The Progress Report 2008 highlights their progress – or achievements – in delivering these services to the Acadian and francophone community. Designated public institutions are those listed in the French-language Services Regulations that have the obligation to implement the French-language Services Regulations Act.

The intent of this report is to highlight French-language service initiatives introduced and implemented in 2007-2008. Of course, any achievements listed here should be taken into consideration with the French-language services already offered by the department, office, or agency. Some existing services may not have been repeated here.

This symbol allows the public to identify government employees who speak French.

How was the information gathered for the 2008 Progress Report?

Information was gathered in part by the French-language Services Coordinating Committee and by key contacts in named designated public institutions.

Designated public institutions were sent a table-style questionnaire which contained the seven sections (see page 3) and 24 subsections found in the Table of Achievements part of this report. The French-language services coordinators and key contacts were asked to complete the table according to their department, office, or agency's achievements in 2007-2008. Questionnaires were returned and the information was combined into a master document that serves as the Table of Achievements.

It is important to note that the information found within this report is not exhaustive. Some departments, offices, and agencies continue to work on initiatives not yet introduced while others have implemented new French-language services that are not listed here.

Contributors to the Progress Report 2008 are: Acadian Affairs, Agriculture, Fisheries and Aquaculture, Art Gallery of Nova Scotia, Communications Nova Scotia, Community Services, Economic Development, Education, Emergency Management Office, Energy, Environment and Labour, Finance, Health/District Health Authorities/IWK Center, Health Promotion and Protection, Human Rights Commission, Immigration, Intergovernmental Affairs, Justice/Legal Aid/Public Prosecution Services, Natural Resources, Nova Scotia Business Inc., Ombudsman, Public Service Commission, Review Office – FOI-POP, Seniors, Service Nova Scotia and Municipal Relations; Advisory Council on the Status of Women, Tourism, Culture and Heritage; Transportation and Infrastructure Renewal; and Voluntary Planning.

How is the information organized in the 2008 Progress Report?

This report includes a Table of Contents, Introduction, Message from the Minister, Corporate Realizations, Summary of Achievements, and Table of Achievements. The Table of Achievements serves as the ‘raw data’ section of the report and contains the information submitted by the French-language services coordinators and key contacts on behalf of their departments, offices, or agencies.

The Table of Achievements is divided into seven sections: (1) Communicating, sharing information, and promoting services available in French; (2) Human Resources – Increasing government’s capacity for French-language services; (3) Policy, regulatory, and administrative framework; (4) Consulting with the Acadian and francophone community; (5) Development, planning, and delivery of French-language services; (6) Preservation and growth of the Acadian and francophone community; and (7) Other activities or projects. Refer to the Table of Contents for subsection titles and page locations.

Similar or associated departments, offices, or agencies may appear together in this report. For example, the Department of Agriculture is listed with the Department of Fisheries and Aquaculture. Also, due to the time period covered by this report, the Department of Labour and Workforce Development and the Department of Environment are listed together under their former title, the Department of Environment and Labour. The District Health Authorities (DHAs) include the following health authorities: Annapolis Valley (AVDHA), Cape Breton (CBDHA), Capital (CDHA), Colchester East Hants (CEHHA), Cumberland (CHA), Guysborough Antigonish Strait (GASHA), Pictou County (PCHA), South Shore (SSDHA), and South West Nova (SWNDHA).

Government employees who wear the Bonjour! logo pin or who display the Bonjour! material at their work site can communicate in English and French.

The Office of Acadian Affairs would also like to acknowledge the partnership of the Government of Canada through the Department of Canadian Heritage and the Canada-Nova Scotia Agreement on French-language Services and the Fédération acadienne de la Nouvelle-Écosse and its member organizations.

The Office of Acadian Affairs encourages the Acadian and francophone community to ask for and use governmental services in French and to continue to make their needs known to the provincial government.

Message from the Minister (November 2008)

As Minister of Acadian Affairs, I am proud to play the role of leader in the French-language services corporate initiative.

The 2007-2008 fiscal year marked the official beginning for annual submissions of French-language Service Plans and the Progress Report on behalf of our designated public institutions that provide French-language services. The Progress Report 2008 details the achievements of participating departments, offices, and agencies over the past year in regard to their individual French-language Service Plans.

As you will see in this report, we have witnessed an explosion in the areas of translation and accessing information on-line. In the area of translation, for example, a target of 1 million words translated was set for 2007-2008. This goal was surpassed by 100,000 for a total of 1.1 million words translated from documents sent by 42 departments, offices, and agencies.

A growing number of citizens are accessing information on-line. The Service Nova Scotia and Municipal Relations web site welcomed over 38,000 unique visitors representing over 62,000 page views of French content and services in 2007-2008. Service Nova Scotia and Municipal Relations also introduced Nova Scotia's new birth certificate, the first province in Canada to launch a new highly secure and bilingual birth certificate, which is available for order on-line in both official languages. Of course, this is just a snapshot of some of the 2007-2008 initiatives you will encounter in the Progress Report 2008.

As minister responsible for the general supervision and management of the French-language Services Act, I applaud the work done by the designated public institutions and I will continue to support them in their endeavours to increase the number and quality of French-language services offered to the Acadian and francophone community.

By collaborating across community and government organizations and partnering with the federal government through the Canada-Nova Scotia Agreement on French-language Services, the Province of Nova Scotia will continue to support the development, delivery, and expansion of French-language services.

Corporate Realizations

Like the New Nova Scotia: A Path to 2020 vision, French-language services are a corporate initiative whose goal is to provide access to meaningful information. In the case of French-language services, the audience is the Acadian and francophone community in Nova Scotia. In fact, many of the achievements from departments, offices, and agencies listed in the Progress Report 2008 can be linked to the five pillars adopted by the Government of Nova Scotia – Safer, Healthy Communities; Better Roads, Infrastructure; Protecting our Environment; Educating to Compete; and Reducing Wait Times.

With the adoption of the French-language Services Act in 2004, the Office of Acadian Affairs officially became the central support agency for all of government in supporting the delivery of French-language services through departments and other designated public institutions.

Canada-Nova Scotia Agreement on French-language Services

During the 2007-2008 fiscal year, the Office of Acadian Affairs continued the administration of the Canada-Nova Scotia Agreement on French-language Services on behalf of the Nova Scotia Government. This administration was carried out in collaboration with the Department of Canadian Heritage who co-managed the agreement on behalf of the Government of Canada.

The Strategic Plan objectives for the Canada-Nova Scotia Agreement on French-language Services are:

- 1. Strengthening the policy, regulatory, and administrative framework in support of the French-language Services Act;
- 2. Consulting with the Acadian and francophone community;
- 3. Communicating, sharing information, and promoting services available in French; and,
- 4. Supporting French-language services development, planning, and delivery in priority areas.

The Agreement provided $1.3 million in 2007-2008 to Nova Scotia to support the development and delivery of French-language services. A special project funding of $35,000 was negotiated for the Perception of French-language Services project. This project is a research study that focuses on the usage and perceived barrier to usage of French-language services. In addition to the research study, the project will also develop awareness training modules for public servants.

Certain French-language services were supported in 2007-2008 including the development of new on-line services for Service Nova Scotia and Municipal Relations and French-language services coordination positions in the departments of Education, Community Services, and Health Promotion and Protection.

Bonjour! French-language services visibility program

The Bonjour! program has a dual role. It encourages government employees to offer services in French—called the active offer—and it encourages members of the public to use governmental services currently available in French.

The Progress Report 2007 detailed the Bonjour! launch and advertising campaign which took place in October 2006 and March 2007, respectively.

In 2007-2008, the Office of Acadian Affairs continued to support Bonjour! by promoting the program during a province-wide presentation tour with Acadian and francophone community leaders. Internal promotion was done by way of the French-language Services Coordinators who maintained a Bonjour! presence within their departments, offices, and agencies.

In 2007-2008, the Office of Acadian Affairs sent 27 Bonjour! product orders (various combinations and quantities of large and small desktop signs, lapel pins, posters, stickers, brochures, notepads, keyboard accent templates, program cards, and miniature French reference flip charts) to designated public institutions. A continuing internal and external Bonjour! awareness campaign is planned for 2008-2009.

Interdepartmental Initiatives and Information Sharing with Acadian and Francophone Community Stakeholders.

As departments and other public institutions develop government strategies, they often request advice from the Office of Acadian Affairs on how to address the needs of the Acadian and francophone community. The Department of Economic Development might meet with the Conseil de développement économique de la Nouvelle-Écosse (CDÉNÉ); the Departments of Community Services and Education might meet with the Fédération des parents acadiens de la Nouvelle-Écosse (FPANE); and the Department of Seniors might meet with the Regroupement des aînés et des aînées de la Nouvelle-Écosse (RANE).

The Office of Acadian Affairs attended meetings held by various departments, offices, and agencies either to observe the meeting or to present information regarding the provincial government's French-language strategy. The Office of Acadian Affairs encourages relationships between departments and community organizations.

In cooperation with the Fédération acadienne de la Nouvelle-Écosse (FANE), the Office of Acadian Affairs met with leaders in the Acadian and francophone community across the province in 2007-2008. These sessions provided opportunity to promote the availability of services in French and to obtain feedback on delivery and usage issues.

French-language Services Coordinating Committee

In 2007-2008, the French-language Services Coordinating Committee consisted of 23 French-language Services Coordinators who represent 24 departments, offices, and agencies in the provincial government. The role of the French-language Services Coordinating Committee is to assist and advise the Minister of Acadian Affairs on the implementation of French-language Services Act. The Coordinating Committee meets regularly to share best practices and to work on policies and guidelines related to French-language services. Ad hoc subcommittees within the Coordinating Committee have tackled specific issues relating to communications, human resources and training, regulations, and consultations with the Acadian and francophone community.

Guided by the objectives in the Strategic Plan for the Canada-Nova Scotia Agreement on French-language Services mentioned earlier, departments, offices, and agencies have accomplished much in the way of delivering French-language services. Refer to the Table of Achievements in the Table of Contents which indicates the initiatives and projects undertaken for 2007-2008.

Ministerial Conference on the Canadian Francophonie

The Minister of Acadian Affairs and the CEO of the Office of Acadian Affairs assumed leadership roles with the Ministerial Conference on the Canadian Francophonie and the Officials Network when Nova Scotia hosted the XIIth Ministerial Conference in Halifax in September 2007. The Ministerial Conference undertakes initiatives related to French-language services including a Youth Intervention Strategy, designed to facilitate the citizen engagement of francophone youth.

Building on Government's Capacity to Provide Services in French

The following are brief descriptions on the types of initiatives undertaken in 2007-2008 to build on the provincial government's capacity to provide services in French. Of course, these initiatives are in addition to those introduced in the Progress Report 2007.

Translation Services

Translation services have been centralized to the Office of Acadian Affairs to help ensure consistency, quality, and standards in all translated texts.

The Office of Acadian Affairs expanded its services with the hiring of a second translator in September 2007. The service was promoted throughout government via regular communications with the French-language Services Coordinating Committee and other interdepartmental contacts.

In 2007-2008, 42 designated public institutions were able to access translation services. Over 1,100,000 words were translated.

French-language Training

French-language training was made available to public servants in order to increase government's capacity to serve the public in French. In 2007-2008, approximately 575 seats were occupied in French-language courses. Most of this training was contracted through Université Sainte-Anne at several locations across the province including Halifax, Sydney, and Tusket. The Federal Council of Nova Scotia provided 20 seats for training and some seats were also provided by Alliance française. (The total of 575 seats does not account for government employees who attended courses during the winter of 2008, which were not funded by the Office Acadian Affairs.) Fees of nearly $105,000 for training were paid with funding from the Canada-Nova Scotia Agreement on French-language Services.

Consultation Guidelines

Internally, the French-language Services Coordinating Committee completed a draft version of French consultation guidelines and a resource toolkit which will assist departments with providing services in French during consultations. All departments and offices were consulted. Distribution and promotion of these guidelines within government is planned for 2008-2009.

Externally, the Office of Acadian Affairs continued to encourage Acadian and francophone community members to make their needs known to government and to participate, when possible, in public consultations.

Summary of Achievements

The objective of the French-language Services Regulations is to ensure substantive and measurable improvements to the French-language services offered by the Government of Nova Scotia. This report shows a great number of achievements covering various areas of government service. Participating departments, offices, and agencies are entering into a new level of understanding of their obligations under the French-language Services Act and are offering more and more services in French that directly answer to needs of the Acadian and francophone community. They are tailoring their efforts based on needs identified through community dialogue, and fostering relations across government so that French-language service initiatives become multi-departmental collaborations. Not only are they offering more services in French, they are prioritizing and specializing the kinds of information made available to the Acadian and francophone community. This creates an atmosphere where anyone in the community can access information in French on subjects impacting every day life such as self-represented litigation, senior abuse prevention, emergency preparedness, water strategy and e-waste, continuing care, renting in a mobile home park, or child booster seat regulations. These are primary services offered to the public and which are now accessible to francophones.

What does this mean?

It means that the needs of Acadians and francophones are being heard and that there has been great effort to find creative and effective ways to meet these needs. Progressively, government is offering an increasing number of services which allow Acadians and francophones to mark life events in their maternal language. This, in turn, gives confidence to this linguistic minority which will feel included in public policy development. This recognition will bring about an even higher confidence and greater citizen engagement in government initiatives by the Acadian and francophone community.

In the long term, it means that they can obtain information on their day-to-day activities or in times of emergency and feel secure in their place as part of the larger—Nova Scotia—community.

Table of Achievements

Section 1: Communicating, sharing information, and promoting services available in French

Since the launch of the Bonjour! French-language services visual identity program, the use of Bonjour! material is evident across government. Although not all departments, offices, and agencies listed basic Bonjour! activities in the Table of achievements, each received Bonjour! material and introduced the program within their institutions in various ways including newsletters, desk displays, or other activities.

Overall, designated public institutions have developed internal processes for responding to written and verbal inquiries in French. From simple correspondence to more detailed project applications, key departments are equipped to receive and respond appropriately.

Translation requests have increased significantly which shows again that designated public institutions are considering the needs of the Acadian and francophone populations. French-language material has been disseminated using francophone networks and community partners and is posted on institutions' websites. Most designated public institutions have material available in French and efforts have been made to communicate the availability of this material to the appropriate audiences.

Section 2: Human Resources – increasing government's capacity for French-language services

Since the launch of the French-language services strategy, government's approach in regard to human resources has been to recruit or train in order to provide quality services to the Acadians and francophones of the province.

The need to advertise French-language competency requirements on job postings continues to grow. Departments, offices, and agencies have already begun work on analyzing the gap between current staff capacity to provide services in French and meeting the needs of the community. As the community continues to increasingly request services in French, it will be easier to determine positions which will require French-language competencies.

At least 12 new positions requiring French language skills as a competency were filled. Two new French-language services coordinator positions were filled.

French linguistic training continues to be popular. As public servants strive to improve their abilities in French, we see an increase in services provided in French. The development of corporate guidelines to help designated public institutions with recruiting and training of French-speaking staff has begun. These will help government in meeting French-language service needs.

Section 3: Policy, regulatory, and administrative framework

Often, in order for changes to occur in government, policy or frameworks must be created and/or modified to include the development and delivery of French-language services. This shows a high level of commitment by designated public institutions to meet their obligations under the French-language Services Act. To do this effectively, consultation and continuous dialogue with the Acadian and francophone community is necessary to truly understand the service requirements.

Section 4: Consulting with the Acadian and francophone community

A greater number of designated public institutions sought to consult the Acadian and francophone population in the past year. On-line petitions, surveys, or discussion papers in French, videoconferencing, simultaneous interpretation or using French-speaking facilitators are some of the ways that were used to encourage and ensure participation of the Acadian and francophone community during consultations. Meetings with members of the public to discuss issues on provincial economic growth, students with special needs, energy, workforce mobility, and natural resources took place.

We will continue to see growth in this area with the development of consultation guidelines for designated public institutions to consider when preparing for consultations. These steps will contribute to greater citizen engagement and a better understanding of specific needs.

Section 5: Development, planning, and delivery of French-language services

Designated public institutions included in their French-language Services Plans for 2008-2009 a report on progress during the previous year (2007-2008). Significant changes were made in some departments in regard to calls for proposals, legal procedures, and welcoming of new employees. A new highly secure, bilingual birth certificate was made available to the public. Funding from various departments, offices, and agencies played a fundamental role in assisting many Acadian and francophone community-based organizations including school-community centres. In the past year there has been a significant shift in the content of the French-language service plans from planning of services to actual delivery. We are confident that the availability of services will continue to grow.

Section 6: Preservation and growth of the Acadian and francophone community

Contributing to the preservation and growth of the Acadian and francophone community is performed in unique ways by each participating department, office, and agency. In 2007-2008, contributions were focused in the areas of culture, sport, workforce, legal services, access to information, and tourism. This objective of the French-language Services Act ensures that resources are provided to the Acadian communities for sustainable development thus contributing to their self-determination.

Section 7: Other activities or projects

This section includes specific activities carried out by departments, offices, and agencies in the areas of fine arts, economic development, statistical information, literacy, health services, and legal services. As we can see, French-language services touch all aspects of life from cradle to grave.

Thoughts for the future

The substantive and measurable improvements in French-language services offered by the Government of Nova Scotia are visible and tangible. Designated public institutions individually plan and develop their services based on priorities and needs which they have identified, and resources available. A corporate strategy for French-language services guides the process and the French-language Services Coordinating Committee works to implement it through horizontal collaboration. Collectively, as a government, these achievements are to be celebrated, but there is still work to do and the future is promising.
