

Communications Nova Scotia

Communications Advisors

Office of the Lieutenant Governor

Competition #: CNS-08-04A

DUTIES: The Communications Advisor develops and implements communications strategies and programs for the Office of the Lieutenant Governor. Responsibilities include stakeholder communications and community relations, media relations, issues management, and writing speeches, materials for public announcements, briefing notes, brochures and other public documents related to the Office. The successful applicant will also have knowledge of the role of the Lieutenant Governor, and understand the protocols of working in a formal environment.

QUALIFICATIONS: University degree in a related discipline and five years professional communications experience (or an acceptable equivalent). The ideal candidate will have strong writing skills, a background in developing and implementing communications strategies, and experience dealing with stakeholders, senior officials, and the media.

Office of Acadian Affairs

Competition #: CNS-08-04B

DUTIES: The Communications Advisor develops and implements communications strategies and programs for the Office of Acadian Affairs. Responsibilities include stakeholder communications, media relations, issues management, and writing speeches, materials for public announcements, briefing notes, brochures and other public documents in both French and English.

QUALIFICATIONS: University degree in a related discipline and five years professional communications experience (or an acceptable equivalent). The ideal candidate will have strong writing skills, a background in developing and implementing communications strategies, and experience dealing with stakeholders and the media. The candidate must be fluent, both written and oral, in English and French.

SALARY RANGE: $52,328 - $68,026

CLOSING DATE: June 23, 2008

Applications for these positions will be considered for vacancies within the next six months.

For information on how to apply for these specific positions go to www.gov.ns.ca/careers

The Province of Nova Scotia is an equal opportunity employer.

www.gov.ns.ca

