

WABANAKI PEOPLE OF THE DAWN

In recognition of October as Mi'kmaq History Month, the Office of Aboriginal Affairs is pleased to invite you to a showing of which profiles four young Mi'kmaq role models who have overcome adversity in order to achieve their goals.

WABANAKI PEOPLE OF THE DAWN III: DREAMCATCHERS

Where: Membertou Trade and Convention Centre
When: Wednesday, October 22, 2008 at 7 - 8:30 p.m.

Refreshments will be provided.

Through talent and sheer determination, these four young people have become successful in their chosen fields. Chad Denny was drafted by the Atlanta Thrashers of the National Hockey League. Jessie Benjamin became a veterinarian while raising two small children. Bridget Stevens abused alcohol and drugs, but a chance meeting with a martial arts master changed her life. She became a boxer who brings her message of sobriety to a younger generation. Troy Julien followed his great grandfather's path into law enforcement and became a constable with the RCMP.

They are positive role models for young Mi'kmaq. They are also showing other Nova Scotians that our Mi'kmaq communities have talents and abilities to do our province proud.

Admission is free. Hope you can join us!
