- This addition to Lake Rossignol Wilderness Area includes two properties that were acquired from private land owners in 2004 and 2008, plus all of MacLean Lake.
- The largely forested parcels include elements of old Acadian forest, with mature white pine and red spruce mixed with hardwood stands.
- The more eastern portion features extensive pine-spruce forest and a small brook; the more northern part includes more than a kilometre of scenic shoreline on MacLean Lake, and contains a large bog.
- Adding these properties to Lake Rossignol Wilderness Area will help maintain the wilderness character and recreation opportunities of this part of the wilderness area, and will simplify wilderness area management and enforcement.
