

Our Public Service Values

These human resource values were identified by public servants across Nova Scotia to guide our decision-making, actions and relationships.

Respect

We value a workplace culture where people respect one another and the citizens we serve.

Integrity

We value a workplace culture where personal and professional integrity cause us to behave in an ethical, professional and non-partisan way and to make the best use of the resources entrusted to us.

Diversity

We value a workplace where diversity, in all its forms, is encouraged and recognized for its contribution to a creative, rewarding, and productive public service.

Accountability

We value a workplace where being accountable for our actions and taking responsibility for our successes and failures is a way of life. We are accountable to the citizens of Nova Scotia, to our co-workers, and to our many partners in service delivery.

The Public Good

We value the very special relationship we have with the citizens of Nova Scotia and are committed to delivering services that are in the public's interest, are for the public good and are deserving of the public's trust.
